Ebbets Field Boxing Ends for Year—Dexter Park Bouts Over

Chick Meehan, president of the Brooklyn Boxing Association, announced yesterday there would be no more boxing bouts at Ebbets Field this year.

Meehan explained that the red-hot interest of Brooklyn sports fans in the performances of the Dodgers serves to detract from the successful promotion of other athletic enterprises. He emphasized that he would resume boxing promotion at Ebbets Field next season.

Dexter Park in Woodhaven also has ended its season. Because of unfavorable weather many of the Monday night shows were rained out. Promoter Bob Berman will return to the Park next Summer. The decision to abandon boxing at Dexter Park this year has prompted the Queensboro Arena promoters to change their show night from Tuesday to Monday.
